San Jose in Gala Rig Ready For Carnival

Garden City's Fiesta of Roses Starts Today

San Jose, May 21.—The floral parade which is to be the chief event of the San Jose Fiesta de las Rosas this year will have nearly 100 entries of floral floats and decorated automobiles, 200 equestrians, all in Spanish costumes, and with wreaths of roses decorating their mounts, several bands of music, the colors from many of the American Legion posts in California, and other effective features.

The parade is to be held at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 22. One of the chief participants will be the queen of the fiesta, who, surrounded by her court, will occupy a special post of honor.

Outstanding features of the rose fiesta will be the grand pageant by 1500 students of the San Jose teachers' college; a flower show and a Shakespeare garden where Frederick Warde, the eminent actor, will make several informal talks; a coronation ball; a closing carnival, with a fireworks display; the presence of a carnival company with many amusement devices etc.

Special railroad rates and traffic control arrangements have been perfected, and there will be ample comfort and refreshment facilities.

J. E. Hoey to Represent Richmond Elks at Chicago

Deputy District Attorney James E. Hoey, having been granted a leave of absence of 60 days, will motor to Chicago where he will represent Richmond Lodge of Elks at the national convention. He will be accompanied by his family, and will make a tour of the middle states and the east before returning.

Pittsburg High Gets U. C. Credit

Pittsburg, May 21.—Pittsburg high school may become accredited to the University of California as the result of a visit from Professor Morris, University examiner, according to Fred S. Rausch, school superintendent. Morris visited all high school classes, inspecting the course of study, to determine if the high school shall be accredited.

Concord Girl Surprises Friends

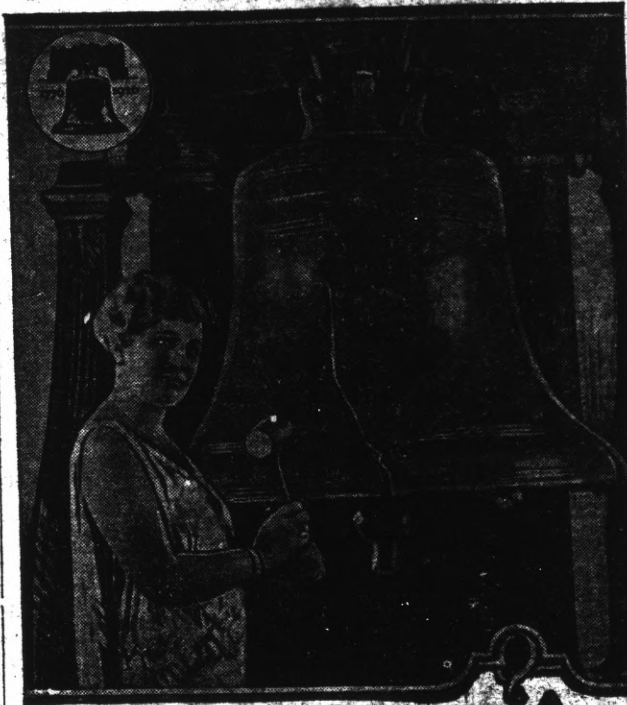

Concord, May 21.—Miss Edna Mae Gallagher and Mr. James T. Haywood surprised their many friends here when news of their marriage was announced. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. C. Patterson of Concord Presbyterian church. The couple are honeymooning in the southern part of the state.

Park Band Stand Is Expensive

There were four bids for the memorial park bandstand, none of them within the budget, $9000. The highest bid was $12,900 and the lowest $10,000.

The annual picnic of Richmond Elks will be held at Garden City, near Danville, June 1.

Mrs. W. F. Kendrick, Wife of the President of Philadelphia's Sesqui-Centennial

Mrs. W. F. Kendrick, wife of the Mayor of Philadelphia, who also is president of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition Association, organized to stage a great celebration to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Mrs. Kendrick is shown beside the historic Liberty Bell, which she tapped at a recent broadcast event when the world was told of completion of plans for the big exposition.

Grandstand Builder Gets Eight Years

Pasadena, May 21.—Paul G. Anderson, Pasadena contractor, has been held responsible for the death of citizens who were killed in the collapse of the stands at the rose festival on New Year's day. The judge in passing sentence said he hoped the accused would serve out his full term of eight years without probation.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Burke S. Calfee of 660 Nineteenth street will leave Friday for Lake county for a brief vacation.

Mrs. B. Swearingen entertained Wednesday afternoon with a delightful bridge luncheon at the Carquinez Golf club, in honor of Mrs. J. N. Long and Mrs. C. D. Horner, who will soon leave on an eastern tour.

Mrs. D. R. Drake of 240 Fifth street, returned Monday from Long Beach, where she was called two weeks ago by the serious illness of her brother-in-law, J. J. Burton, who died during her visit. Burton was known here as he had visited at the home of Mrs. Drake several times.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morrelli of 205 East Richmond avenue returned Tuesday evening from a week's motor trip to Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Monterey.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Ford of Richmond Sunday visited Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wyatt at the Wyatt ranch, near Petaluma, and found them enjoying farm life and prospering. Wyatt was formerly sanitary inspector here.

Harry T. Craycroft, well known employee of the Santa Fe here, was taken to the Providence hospital in Oakland Tuesday to be operated upon for appendicitis.

The Contra Costa county board of education set June 11 for annual teachers' examinations.

Safety Council to Stage Grand Parade in Oakland

Oakland, May 21.—Sixty floats, a score of bands and leading military organizations will take part in the estbay safety council's parade tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon, May 22, according to the program of the arrangement committee.

Invitations have been issued to Gov. Friend W. Richardson, Mayor James Rolph, Chief of Police Dan O'Brien and other leading officials of San Francisco and the state.

There are more than forty firms and organizations signed up to join in the parade.

Recent Irish discoveries show that daylight saving was practiced a thousand years ago. And most modern reform movements are a lot older than that.

Now that all of the war debts are arranged all that we have to do is to get the money.

It ought to be much safer for us to be contented with our lot in life now that the strawberry shortcake season is in full blast.

Newspapers Are Often Handicapped

There are many citizens who expect to pay their butcher and grocer every month, but they think that a newspaper subscription bill can be paid any old time. Some of them will let it run for years, if the publisher does not cut it off; and if it is cut off they get huffy and knock the paper.

They feel indignant because doubt has been thrown upon their credit. They should reflect that the publisher gets no good out of their credit. What he needs to pay his help and settle his paper bills, etc., is cash, and nothing will take the place of same.

El Cerrito Postoffice Pays Good Salary

El Cerrito, May 20.—Although El Cerrito has no free mail delivery other than rural, the city has excellent postoffice service, which is a great convenience to the population. The volume of business is increasing rapidly, the salary of the postmaster being advanced to $1850.

Albany, the city adjoining El Cerrito, with a much larger population, has carrier service twice a day, but has no postoffice or even a sub station where money orders, stamps, etc., can be procured. The money spent for these necessities goes to Berkeley, Oakland, San Francisco and Richmond, and is scattered so much that it would be almost impossible for Albany to secure accommodations on a showing of business which the government requires as a basis for granting postoffice service.

Martinez, May 20.—B. J. McCoy, charged with running down and killing Gus Erickson, in El Cerrito recently, has been freed on $20000 bail pending the entering of a plea Monday.

San Pablo Avenue to Be Paved and Widened

Los Angeles to Start Traveling Via Air Line

Los Angeles, May 21.—A daily passenger service between this city and Salt Lake will be inaugurated in a few days, according to official statement made by the Western Airship Co. The initial flight will have for passengers four business men of this city.

Richmond Represented

Mary Macdonald Jensen, manager of the Richmond credit bureau of retailers, was in attendance Tuesday night at the meeting of the Alameda county retailers' association at the Athens athletic club. Louis Ferari, former San Francisco district attorney, and Will Hayes, referee in bankruptcy, were the principal speakers.

Congested Traffic Is Accelerating Big Improvement

El Cerrito, May 20.—This city is making preliminary preparations for the paving of San Pablo avenue, extending north to the Richmond line. The highway plans will include the widening of the avenue. The engineering department is now making surveys, and it is understood that actual work will begin not later than August 1.

Richmond is preparing to co-operate in widening and paving the highway, the San Pablo creek bridge being widened to accommodate the traffic.

W. R. Morehouse Reveals Further Schemes by Which Poor Widows Are Deprived of Their Savings—Unbelievable Frauds Are Worked on the Uninformed.

By W. R. MOREHOUSE, Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association.

ARTICLE NO. III

LAND swindles are almost as common as sand on the beach. Here is one. A widow was left alone in the world with but $6,000. She was urged to take a "business" trip to a country to look over a new town site. Just a pleasure trip, she was told. No obligation on her part. She accepted the invitation with no intention of parting with her precious $6,000, but she fell under the spell of the swindler's promises.

She was told that she could purchase a vacant lot for the $6,000 cash she had in a savings bank. Thirty days after she drew out her account for what she supposed was a business lot she received a notice that her monthly installment of $6,000 was due, being a $1,000 payment on each of six $6,000 lots. Strange as it may seem, not until she received this notice did she read the contract she had signed. Instead of buying one $6,000 lot and paying for it, as she meant to do, she had signed a contract to buy six $6,000 business lots and the $6,000 she drew from the bank had been applied as a first payment of $1,000 each on the six lots.

Had she gone to her banker she would have saved herself the loss of her inheritance, but doubtless the reason she had not consulted her bank was because she was not aware that bankers render such a service.

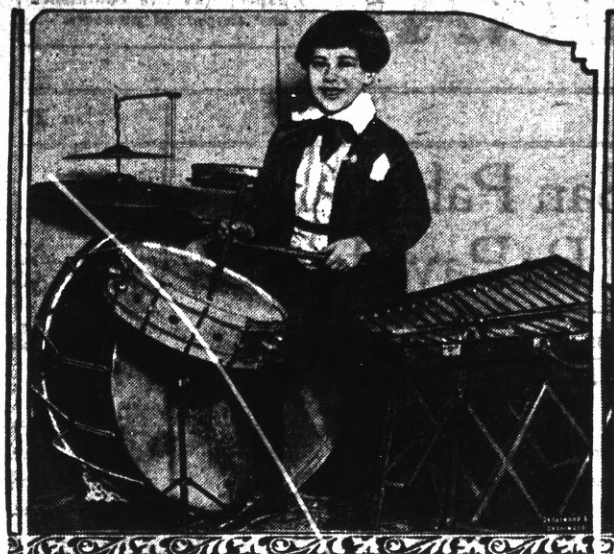

A Widow Fell Among High Pressure Land Salesmen. Sad is the lot of the savings depositor who, after losing his savings through wild-out speculation, is driven to desperation for funds and finds it necessary to borrow money to meet an emergency such as sickness or unpaid rent. Let me give the facts about two cases of the many with which I have come in contact.

The Loan Shark at Work. The principal characters in the first case are a man, who must borrow $250 to place his wife in a hospital to save her life, and a loan shark, who demands every ounce of blood in desperation the borrower applies to this loan shark for the loan of $250. This is what it costs him—the amount is almost unbelievable but I obtained the exact figures first hand and I can vouch for their correctness. This man was obliged to give his note for $250 for a loan of $250. The day he got the money the shark sold it to an impatient bidder and it became an obligation binding upon the borrower. Think of paying $250 for a loan of $250!

Now for another. This time there is a woman in the case. The woman needed $100 to meet a payment on her furniture at 240 E. 12th street to a furniture store. She turned to

Silence Lures Ships to Death

Mystery of "Graveyard of Pacific" at Last Is Solved.

Victoria, B. C.—The mystery of the "Graveyard of the Pacific," where scores of ships have piled up on the rocks near this city, at last has been solved. Scientists who have investigated the amazing reports of deep-sea skippers are convinced that a "zone of silence," through which no fog signals will penetrate hovers about the southern end of Vancouver island and makes Race Rocks one of the most feared places in the seven seas. No foghorn, however loud, is sufficient to warn ships which are caught in the silent zone, investigators report, and only a complete change in the location of present lighthouses will cope with the problem.

This weird phenomenon has been suspected for many years. Masters of ships entering the Strait of Juan de Fuca, inbound to the United States and Canada from the Orient, have reported that they could not "hear" the powerful strains of the Race Rocks lighthouse, while these signals were deafening at other points not far away. Masters of vessels which have been wrecked near Race Rocks asserted that they heard no warning from the shore. Year after year veshouse keepers' figures at Race Rocks, a few hundred yards away, and yet could not hear the noises which were heard plainly at other places miles away. The weather at this time was quite clear, which showed that fog has nothing to do with the silent zone.

Shipping men believe that the problem can be overcome by the removal of the Race Rocks lighthouse fog signals to a point out of line with the silent zone. In this way it is hoped the "Graveyard of the Pacific" would be made as safe as any other portion of the Pacific coast of America. Much has been done for shipping in this area already. By the powerful direction-finding wireless station established by the Canadian government at Pachena, on the west coast of Vancouver island. From this station vessels ascertain their position by wireless, and thus avoid the shore. After they have entered the Strait of Juan de Fuca, however, they depend upon foghorns to warn them away from the rocks. It is at Victoria that they are in danger of becoming surrounded by the fatal vortex of "dead" air through which no warning sounds can be heard.

Calls Cancer Noncontagious After Experiments on Self

Berlin.—Cancer is not contagious when brought in contact with a healthy human body, in the opinion of Dr. Hans Kurtzahn of the surgical clinic of Konigsberg university.

Doctor Kurtzahn has astonished a convention of German surgeons now in session here by reporting that he had experimented on himself, transferring a patch of cancerous growth from a patient's pectoral gland to his own thigh. The cancer cells, he reported, soon died, being unable to live in a healthy body.

In an effort to test whether cancer could be cured through a serum, Doctor Kurtzahn also extracted blood from himself after an injection of cancer bacilli. He reported that he had found negative results in the serum made from this blood.

The experiments, which were made five months ago, left Doctor Kurtzahn perfectly healthy. The German physician's willingness to experiment upon himself in the study of cancer has been acclaimed by his colleagues as an act of rare heroism.

Birds' Trails Rival Roar of Gotham "L"

New York.—Thousands of bird lovers are included in New York's teeming population, and it has been noted that they reside almost entirely in those sections given over to households of moderate incomes.

Along the roofs on several of the East side's drab and tortuous streets can be seen a succession of pigeon coots and the ubiquitous canary with bravely against the roar of the elevated from frequent windows along the tracks.

The pigeons of Custom House square and Battery park are well known to tourists, as are the robins of Central park (in season), but only the cliff-dwellers of Broadway know that at certain well established corners the assertive sparrow meets in daily, noisy convention.

Colfax Lodge, No. 200, Knights of Pythias, of Colfax, has purchased the Methodist Episcopal church property for a site for a Pythian temple. It is planned to erect a two-story concrete building to cost about $20,000.

Director G. H. Hecke, state department of agriculture, announces the appointment, effective April 19, of W. H. Tuggle of San Francisco as supervising inspector in charge of the administration of the California canned fruit standardization act, which was passed by the last session of the legislature and becomes effective with this year's pack.

The San Joaquin Light and Power company with an agreement by twelve or fourteen residents in the island, Kings county, to take service, is extending service about two or three miles from a take-off north of Le-moore. The service is to supply current for electric lighting, heating and cooking, which has not heretofore been available in this district.

An aftermath of the Grizzly Creek tunnel tragedy of April 17, when a cave-in took the lives of five of six men entombed by the slide, is the revelation in Quincy, Plumas county, that William Cope, the shift foreman and one of those killed, was believed dead for twenty years. This information was given by his son, William John Cope, Stanford University student, who came to settle the estate, who said his mother, Mrs. Christiana Wiggins of Los Angeles, had married again in the belief her husband had been killed in the San Francisco fire of 1906.

El Segundo is in every respect a modern city, both commercially and as a beach residential community. The Standard Oil company refinery covering approximately 1,300 acres, employing from 1,500 to 2,000 men, with its huge concrete tanks, shipping pier, and fine office headquarters situated in a beautifully parked area, represents modern commercial development of the highest rank, according to reports. The General Chemical company's plant, representing an investment of millions, swells El Segundo's monthly payroll to a total of $245,000. For any city of 2,700 population, east or west, these figures tell a story of commercial advantage requiring no further elaboration.

Stating that the dairy industry is basic to the prosperity of Kings county, and that any considerable consumption of butter substitutes would work its impairment, the Kings county farm bureau is mobilizing the industrial, business, banking, and farming interest in a concerted and county-wide campaign against the referendum movement, the purpose of which is to defeat the bill introduced by Assemblyman Frank Johnson of Hardwick, Kings county, to regulate the manufacture and sale of butter substitutes in this state.

Mother's day was fittingly observed in all California prisons. Through the prison department of the Salvation Army, inmates of the state's penal institutions were presented with specially designed badges bearing the inscription "Mother" outlined against a cluster of red and white carnations. In addition, Salvation Army mothers visited prisons to confer with prisoners and held special services at the San Francisco county jail, Alcatraz barracks, Mare Island naval prison, Folsom and San Quentin penitentiaries.

Auburn's (Placer county), hope for a federal building received a serious setback when it was announced at Auburn, recently, that the post office department had authorized the local postal officials to obtain a ten-year lease upon suitable property for a post office building. The late Congressman J. E. Raker had several times made an unsuccessful effort, to have a federal building erected in Auburn at a cost of $60,000, and at the time of his death a bill to that effect was pending in Congress.

It was doughnut-eating day in Stockton recently, with thousands of "slinkers" being delivered to citizens by Camp Fire girls. The Stockton Camp Fire organization began a campaign a short time ago to raise $1,000 for the entertainment of delegates to the national Camp Fire executives' convention to be held in Stockton May 29 to June 3. It required over 200 Camp Fire girls and Boy Scouts to deliver the palate ticklers.

Manager Arthur E. Lang of the Queen Colony Fruit Exchange, at Corona, Sonoma county, says that returns from oranges and lemons are the largest this season in the history of the organization. Already 789 carloads of citrus fruit have been shipped and total shipments are expected to number 1,539. Last year the total shipments were 1,142 carloads. Returns amount to $345,000, as compared with $732,000 last year.

Figures made public in the office of the city manager of Chico, show that during the entire year of 1925 building permits for structures having an aggregate value of $289,267 were issued. Declaring that for the most part the exhibits at Sutter's Fort, Sacramento's most famous landmark, are in exceptionally good condition, and that there are possibilities of making of the fort one of the most attractive and interesting historical museums in the country, Harry C. Peterson, recently appointed curator of the museum, has filed a preliminary report on the museum with the board of control.

Road work is in progress on the Imperial valley-Julian highway which connects with the state highway at Kane Springs a few miles west of Westmoreland. According to the supervisors of Imperial county, permanent work is to be done in grading and leveling with some graveling, to the San Diego county line and the road is to be ready for traffic sometime in the latter part of May.

Thomas M. Gannon, state legislative counsel, announced the new supplement to the index of the laws of California, is just off the press and is ready for distribution. The book, to be distributed by the state printer at a nominal cost, contains a complete index to all the laws enacted at the last three sessions of the legislature and tables of amendments.

What is declared to be the biggest day's logging in the history of California was recorded at Central Camp, when the Sugar Pine Lumber company yarded and loaded 101 cars in one day. The company now is 5,000,000 ahead of last year's record, with a goal of 120,000,000 set for the season.

With flood waters in the cloudburst areas north of Bakersfield and east of Taft rapidly subsiding, Kern county is taking stock of the damage, which will amount to more than $1,000,000. Already the task of repairing roads and property damaged by the tearing waters has been begun.

Standing as a concrete expression of the confidence of Bakersfield citizens in the future of their city, the community hotel, known officially as Hotel El Tejon, erected at a cost of approximately $650,000, was thrown open a short time ago, to the inspection of the public.

Quiets His Conscience by $2.50 After 25 Years

Dover, N. J.—No longer conscience stricken, Thomas Jennings has returned to his home in Milton, and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad is richer by $2.50, which he paid for a train ride stolen 25 years ago.

Jennings said the wrong began troubling him after his recent conversion, and that the sum represented both principal and interest.

He made a special trip to Dover and paid the money to Herbert Harring, ticket agent.

PUZZLING DEATH LAID TO SPIRITS

Police Mystified Over Murder of Voodooist.

Oakland, Cal.—Mysterious spirits, subservient to Lucifer, so far have eluded Oakland police, probing the murder of Marcello Timon. But, regardless of whether these spirits actually exist, detectives said they were responsible for the death of Timon, practitioner of voodooism and other black arts.

Police are convinced that the secrets and superstitions of a mysterious cult of devil worshippers hold the solution of the crime. Timon, left dead with his throat slashed a fortnight ago, might have been a human sacrifice demanded by the strange ritual, according to official theory.

Practices of the cult were first barred to view when Valquilleno Nalaska admitted that Timon had once invited him to his house. There Timon muttered cabalistic words and showed him dried hen's blood and other symbolic substances, Nalaska said.

A manual of Timon's strange cult, translated, revealed the following formula for obtaining audiences with a spirit:

"Catch a black hen, obtaining one that has never laid eggs. Catch it with care so it does not cry out. To do this, catch it at two o'clock in the morning.

"Take it to the center of a cross roads that form a perfect cross. With a wand of yew draw a mystic circle. This done, place the hen in the center and cut its body in two parts, pronouncing:

"Elohim, Besian, Flingtoris, Estafatin, Perpendu, Sarabu."

Then, after turning the face to the east and bowing, recite the curse of the great spirit, Aldoney, and you may confront the spirit immediately."

Stolen Pigs Eat Stolen Corn in Stolen Sties

Rushville, Ind.—Stolen pigs fed with stolen corn on a farm bounded by stolen fence, whose owner lived in a house built of stolen material with stolen tools and with stolen fixtures, were described to police by Fred Clevenger, Jr., twenty-six, when he was arrested for chicken thefts.

Sale within three weeks of $300 worth of chickens brought about Clevenger's arrest. While being questioned about the poultry, he unburdened a troubled conscience without restraint and told of his stolen home complete.

Two hours after the confession, farmers living near by were recovering their pigs, plows and pumps from Clevenger's four-acre tract, dairymen were claiming their cows, poultry fanciers were identifying their chickens, and representatives of three lumber companies were speculating about how to dispossess the "stolen" house to recover the parts of it built with material taken from their yards.

Wakes Sheriff at 2 A. M. to Surrender Himself

Vinton, Iowa.—Sheriff Winfield Ruhl heard a terrific hammering on the front door of his home at 2 a. m. Calling out the window to learn who had broken his slumbers at such an hour, the sheriff was amazed to learn that the early caller was a prisoner who wanted to surrender himself.

Bob Shirley had been convicted of bootlegging at Belle Plaine. He told the mayor that he didn't want to put the county to the expense of sending him to Vinton and that he would surrender himself.

Shirley was given the commitment papers and he walked the 14 miles to this city to surrender. He was jailed for 30 days.

Cuts Off Aged Mother's Leg With Butcher Knife

Detroit, Mich.—George Markwardt, thirty-six years old, confessed that he severed the right leg of his seventy-six-year-old mother, Mrs. August Markwardt, with a butcher knife and hackaw.

Markwardt and the body of his mother were found in a room at their home by neighbors.

Mrs. Markwardt had been critically ill and a post-mortem examination failed to reveal whether death occurred before or after the leg was severed. Markwardt was sent to a receiving hospital for mental observation.

LIVES ON FARM IN OKLAHOMA

Happy Woman Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the woman in the blue checked apron, who was looking at them, was not of the herd. She was tired of cooking for a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleep well and is no longer blue and timid. This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 395, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself? I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound.' Other women who have to work hard and keep things going may find the road to better health as Mrs. Short did, through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Ask your neighbor."

Chicago Police Very Busy After Gang Murders

As one result of the latest murders by gangsters in Chicago the police and other law officers are engaging in a clean-up campaign, directed especially at Cicero, a suburb just outside the city limits which has been headquarters for many of the thugs. The picture shows officers wrecking one of the gambling houses which have been running openly.

MOTHER AND CHILDREN SEPARATED BY THE BIBLE

Literal Interpretation of Scriptures Is Cause for Rift in Kansas City Family.

Kansas City, Mo.—Mrs. Leona Benedict, thirty-one, widow, with the aid and advice of juvenile Judge Henry Meade, Kansas City, Kan., mapped out a definite campaign to win back the love of the three older of her six children.

To win that love and change their determination not to live with her, she must drive from their minds the belief that she is wicked in that she has bobbed her hair, wears a red hat and has jewelry in the form of a wedding ring.

During this love drive the children will live with families neutral between the mother and the officials of a children's home operated by the Mennonite church in Kansas City, Kan.

Slowly but persistently the mother hopes to persuade the children they need not interpret literally the fifth and sixth verses of the eleventh chapter of First Corinthians, which says: "But every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered dishonoreth her head: for that is even all one as if she were shaven."

"For, if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn; but if it be a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered."

When the father of the children died, leaving the mother without means, she accepted an offer of the Mennonites to care for them temporarily.

She obtained employment as a housekeeper in a Kansas City home, and, after months of saving and arranging to have two rooms in the employer's house, she sought to obtain custody of the children.

Ellis, nine; Catherine, eight, and Lester, five, were willing, but Helen, thirteen; Edith, twelve, and Roy, ten, rebelled.

The mother employed a lawyer and appealed to the juvenile court. There the children pointed to their mother's hair and hat and ring and quoted the Bible verses.

The children frankly said they had formed their beliefs since entering the institutional home.

"Mother does not read the Bible every day," Helen, spokesman, told the judge.

A second hearing found the children equally determined and then it was that Judge Meade assumed the Solomon role and devised a plan whereby the mother might have a chance to win back her children's love.

If, after a few months, she is unable to change their views, the children will be adopted in homes where they now are living.

"I'll win them yet," said the mother. "Mother love is not weighed by tongs of hair."

Tired, Lame, Achy?

Are you dragging around with a constant backache? Feel weak, worn and achy; so miserable you can't enjoy a moment's comfort? How about your kidneys? Well kidneys filter off body poisons. But when the kidneys slow up, poisons accumulate and upset the system. Backache is apt to follow, with sharp pains, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities. Don't delay! If you suspect faulty kidney action, use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands—are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

A California Case

Mrs. Emma Olson, 2128 Olive Ave., Long Beach, Calif., says: "When my kidneys were disordered, I felt out of sorts all over. I seemed to ache all over and sharp pains took me through my back and sides. I wasn't much I could do. I was nervous and felt tired and languid all the time. One box of Doan's Pills rid me of the trouble."

Howe About

By ED-HOWE

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

In charges made against me by preachers, women, editorial writers, statesmen, children, the commercial club, the neighbors, solicitors, clerks, etc., I am strongly disposed to believe about half of it is true and that the other half belongs to my critics.

I was once walking on a busy street with a very rich woman. The crowd parted for her, not knowing or caring about her distinction. At the crossing she was held up with negroes and Indians, unless she jumped out of the way, passing automobiles threw muddy water on her clothing, a shower having recently fallen.

The rich and great have no special protection from the main difficulties of life. They have headaches, rheumatism, heartache, dyspepsia, like the rest of us. I think the worst case of heartache I ever knew came to my attention while talking with a great heiress.

People flatter the rich, but I imagine this becomes wearisome to them. Besides, are not we poor flattered, also? Is there a writing or publication speaking wherein we are not told how honest and good we are?

It is often said the great need of the world is more Christians. I think the real need is more gentlemen, since a real gentleman will nearly always discharge whatever duty he owes religion. The truth is the number of gentlemen is small. I hope I shall never know the real number of cads there are; the enormous figures would humiliate me.

In a certain town a young man nineteen years old was arrested for burglary. His mother is prostrated with grief—I have known the mother and not a good many years. If ever a mother worked hard to ruin a son, this mother did. She was always saying he was all she had, and that she loved him as she loved her life. The neighbors knew the boy was worthless, and that the mother was largely responsible. You needn't say you know no such mother, for there are several living in your neighborhood.

Man is the queerest of animals. A rabbit, on sight of a dog, always runs, but many men, on sight of the devil, rush into his arms.

"All truths," writes a mighty man in literature, "begin as blasphemies." It is as silly and infamous a thing as was ever printed.

Not much can be accomplished with Spirituality, except its suggestion that Materialism be made a little more decent.

In one of his writings H. G. Wells speaks of the development of civilization as wonderful. I do not see anything wonderful about it. Early man tried various things, adopted those that would work, and passed off the stage. Then his successors improved his processes, and in time their processes were improved. What is there wonderful about it? Is it not natural for man to seek the shortest and easiest methods? If a dog is lying in the sun, and it becomes too warm, he moves into the shade.

We finally learned to wear chilly clothes, although you would blush to hear how long we were in learning of so simple a utility as a fireplace to carry smoke outside the room. The real wonder is the long time we were in learning the simplest things. And some of the simplest things we haven't learned yet. Look at the millions who still believe that the easiest way to get things is to steal them. Billions are yet to be converted to the simple, true doctrine that honesty is the best policy.

The ill in public affairs of which we complain are results of bad acts of those complaining.

It is mercy, not justice, you need.

The greatest trouble with Americans is the manner in which we overdo good things.

I know a man so prominent that his name is almost a household word, because of his advertising. He has branches in Canada, England, Mexico, Japan, South America, Cuba, India, Australia, New Zealand, practically everywhere.

A very intelligent man, without a doubt.

He writes me that he has used one razor blade a hundred and sixty-nine times, by actual count. His experience is that the razor blades are ruined by being stropped too much!

This man has found that a comparatively few times across the tropic keep a razor blade in condition while much stropping ruins it.

Here is a line sermon from a preacher who amounts to something. The trouble with preachers is that so many of them do not know what they are talking about; the world is full of dull preachers preaching to dull men.

But here is a preacher who has proven his intelligence; when he talks, there is more behind it than mere sound.

I have been preaching against the American sin of overdoing many things, but here is a man who with a little insight from his own experiences, preaches more powerfully.

Here is a honest, worthy of consideration and application to everything.

TUTSON AND THE PIG

By ANNE E. WILSON

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

INSULT becomes a fine art when cultivated steadily. It had been so developed by Mrs. Lucinda Tutson through a lifetime of extraordinary opportunity. At forty she had just about reached perfection and good fortune had provided her with an inspiring subject in the person of the latest sutor for her hand.

"Common," she hurled at the somewhat apologetic fat dandy standing before her, "common is 'o' middle name. I's plum sick 'o' 'o' nigger ways an' doin's. Move out'n ma sight 'o' I takes sick from lookin' at ya." And she turned her head as though to avert an impending attack. "Common," she muttered, "common as pig tracks!"

The object of her derision grinned with appreciative good humor. "I ain't," he retorted.

But for the time being Lucindy chose to withhold her pyrotechnics. "Git along on," she urged wearily. "You weasels me out." Not far beyond ready began to rise and fall in undulating regularity over a washbasin of shirts, there arose the geometry-defying angle of a wooden enclosure. Thither Tutson's appealing eye meandered while he lingered still.

"How's de pig?" he dared to call just as soon as he took his reluctant departure.

"Not at home," was Lucindy's rejoinder, "and neither ain't I."

So rebuffed, he moved on. The buzz of insect life and the drowsy warmth lulled Tutson's senses as he once more made his way towards the scene of his so-called labors. He had lunched on Mrs. Tutson's bounty to such an extent that the mere thought of another stretch of hours without hope of a few moments' slumber was as martyrdom itself.

"Tain't right!" he protested half aloud. "Some folks got de right to lie up an' rest themselves day or night, an' no questions axed. Let a po' yo'n no nigger stretch out fo' a little peace an' comfort an' he catches it." At this point the eternal injustice of life, he reached his destination.

This proved to be Tim Bradley's grocery and feed store, where, for the rest of the afternoon he was pledged to shoo flies off the vegetables on display without, on measure certain commodities for packaging within. Which ever it might chance to be, it was equal torture to Tutson in anticipation.

At his approach, a shuffling at the back of the shop apprised him of the fact that his employer was at that moment hurrying off to a hot meal at home. The dandy's reappearance was a signal for his exit.

Mind out the store," was Mr. Bradley's admonition as he scuttled away. "Won't be back this afternoon." Tutson's face, lighted with an inner radiance.

"Charge up what's bought and lock up 'fore you go," came the retreating voice. "I got the cash box with me and I'll know if anything's missin' out of stock."

To which somewhat minatory finale, Tutson yawned luxuriously. A deal chair just within the shop proper seemed infinitely more interesting than either stock or cash boxes to him just then.

"Nuthin' like a liddle peace an' quiet," was all he said as sleep fell upon him like a sudden extinction.

When Tutson awoke it was not a case of mere repose; it was coma. So, evidently, thought Jeebel, sole property in live stock of Mrs. Lucindy Tutson and the pig after whose welfare Tutson had so recently inquired. She was coming through the high grass now much after the fabled manner of the stalkers of the jungle, and her sharp blue eyes were fastened upon the refreshing spectacle of Tim Bradley's vegetable stand.

Squeezing under the last rail of the fence opposite, she stood for a moment as though in contemplation of some far horizon. In that moment, however, she had laid her plan of approach. Jeebel had played this game before; with a soft almost sleepy "herumph," she walked past the stand and around toward the back of the store, noting the ground interestedly meanwhile. Though her eyes lifted but for the fraction of an instant, she had definitely located the carrots. Having completely cleared the store building, she reappeared at the left, but her manner had entirely changed. She was all nerves now, bristled slightly, edged along her retreating back, and every motion calculated toward the consummation of her purpose. With lightning movement of her head and a business-like man, she removed two carrots without as much as disturbing another vegetable. Her cheeks bulged but her countenance was serene.

It was then she once more averted her eyes slowly to the stand, she took in Tutson's apologetic figure, which she may have unconsciously glimpsed her steps, but she betrayed no sign of alarm. The carrots were quietly slipped to the shade of Tim Bradley's back door.

Several similar expeditions, however, proved to be fruitless, and she had nothing whatever to show for her exertions. She was now standing in the front yard, looking toward the store, when she saw the opportunity of a life-time, she lost no more time

CHICKEN DISHES

Chicken is one of the favorite meats, and as one three of the ordinary ways of cooking this delectable meat and long for some new ways to present it, the following, though not new, may be suggestive to the progressive cook.

The French cooks are artists in surprising one with a familiar dish, dressed, served and seasoned so that it is quite new. One does not wish to so season any food that the original character and flavor of the dish is destroyed. Chicken is such a delicately flavored meat that it adds to many dishes. No scrap or bone should be thrown away until its possibilities have been exhausted.

Chicken a la Marengo.—This dish is said to have been one that was originated for Napoleon after the battle of Marengo. Cut up a five-pound chicken as for fricassee. Melt two tablespoonsful of butter in a saucepan and add three tablespoonsful of the best live oil. When it is hot add the dark meat of the chicken and cook five minutes, then add the white meat with salt, pepper and a bit of garlic to season. Stir and cook twenty minutes, until each piece is a golden brown. Have ready a tomato sauce made from a can of tomato, a slice of onion, carrot and a sprig of parsley, cooked thick and rubbed through a sieve; add one-half pound of fresh mushrooms and the chicken. Cook the mushrooms in butter for five minutes before adding. Arrange the chicken on a platter, add three tablespoonsful of strained tomato to the gravy in the pan, stir until hot, pour over the chicken and serve.

Chicken Salad.—To a cupful of tender bits of chicken—white meat preferred—add two cupfuls of meat white celery finely cut, a handful of shredded almonds all mixed with a highly seasoned mayonnaise dressing.

Mother's Apple Pie.—Fill a prepared pastry shell with sliced apple, add two or three tablespoonsful of water and put on the top crust. Bake slowly and when done carefully remove the crust with a sharp knife. Add sugar, spices and butter to taste, mixing well, replace the crust and serve as usual. This pie will retain all its juices, never running over.

Greens in Ramekins.—Take chopped greens, add egg, grated cheese and fill buttered ramekins. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake.

Common Foods.

For a sandwich filling the following is one that may be easily made of materials usually plentiful:

Pressed Egg and Ham Sandwiches.—Chop fine six hard-cooked eggs, one green onion and one-half of a lemon; mix with one-half teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of prepared mustard. Place half the mixture in a small greased pan, press down and add a layer of chopped ham, using one and one-half cupfuls; finish with the rest of the egg mixture and pour over two tablespoonsful of soup stock. Let stand to chill and become firm.

Onion Sandwiches.—Chop fine a large Southern onion, mix with French dressing and spread on buttered bread and serve for supper sandwiches with a cup of tea or cocoa. Chopped carrot with onion and a little mayonnaise makes another very good filling. Vary with chopped celery added, or taking the place of the onion.

Curried Eggs.—Cook six eggs in the shell until hard, using three quarts of boiling water poured over them, then cover tightly and let stand one-half hour on the back of the stove. They will be well cooked without being tough, provided the eggs were of the room temperature when put to cook. Remove the shells and cut the eggs into halves. Fry a teaspoonful of onion in a tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of cornstarch, or two of flour, mixed with half a tablespoonful of curry powder. Pour over one and one-half cupfuls of good stock, cream or milk. Simmer until well cooked, add the eggs and serve on toast with the sauce poured over the eggs and toast.

Corn Flake Dainties.—Take two cupfuls of corn flakes, one cupful of coconut, one egg white well beaten, a speck of salt, a half teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of sugar. To the beaten egg add the sugar, then corn flakes, coconut and other ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven. Other kinds of nuts may be used if coarsely chopped.

Bake and Apple Pie.—Line a pie plate with a rich crust, fill with a mixture of chopped apples and dates, using the cupful of dates to two of apples. Sprinkle with cinnamon, sugar and dot with bits of butter. Bake with a top crust and bake in a moderate oven one hour. Serve hot or cold with ice cream, or whipped cream.

If you want to buy a car on time

It is to your advantage to buy the car that you can comfortably afford, on a payment plan that gives you a sure margin of safety.

General Motors has its own finance company, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, operating the GMAC Plan. Through its service more than 1,000,000 families have purchased cars comfortably out of income.

On August 1 last, the price of this service, which had always been low, was further reduced. And the automobile-buying public is now saving millions of dollars annually as a result of this reduction and the influence of General Motors' leadership.

The purchase of automobiles on time is a universally accepted practice. The car is a utility and it is sound business to conserve capital and use credit. But buy on sound terms and at low rates. Any General Motors dealer will explain the advantages of the GMAC Plan.

NEW MELONES POWER HOUSE

Architect's drawing of the new Melones Power House now being erected by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company on the Stanislaus River, East of Oakdale. The Oakdale and South San Joaquin Irrigation Districts recently voted $2,200,000.00 in bonds for the construction of a dam two hundred feet high.

The districts impound water and sell it to the Power Company for power generation, after which it will go into the irrigation ditches and canals. The payment by the Power Company for the water will retire the district's bonds and pay the interest during the life of the bonds.

The power house will cost $2,500,000 and have an installed capacity of 30,000 horsepower.

FUTURE BECKONS YOUNG AMERICANS

Achievements of Past Only Show
Great Opportunity Ahead.

Great events of the past quarter century which lead some young men to complain that all the big things have been done, leaving no opportunity for them, as a matter of fact only go to show that even greater opportunity today lies ahead of them. F. N. Shephard, Executive Manager of the American Bankers Association, recently told members of the American Institute of Banking in New York. After surveying the outstanding accomplishments in science, industry and finance during the last twenty-five years, Mr. Shephard emphasized the reward given men of achievement in America, especially in the financial field.

"The achievements of the past are the groundwork for the opportunities of today and tomorrow," he said. "There never was a time when so great were the possibilities of the individual. The world was never so ready and able to pay well for what it wants. For superior service to society, under competitive conditions, whether through invention or production or organization or distribution of useful articles, no reward is begrudged, particularly here in America. Added to human comfort and human needs, these things make life easier and better. The world has shared, but it is in America that they have reached their highest development and utilization. The American spirit of useful enterprise, however, does not confine itself within our own borders. It permeates the entire world and renders great service to peoples other than our own."

"Let us pass over America's service to humanity in the war and consider what is being done now. Largely to rebuild the economic life of a world shattered by the war and its devastating after effects, America has, since the war, loaned other peoples over ten billion dollars. Last year alone a billion and a half in foreign financing was consummated in the United States. American financial genius has so far readjusted our banking machinery to meet enlarged international obligations that stupendous foreign loans, such as the $100,000,000 Dares plan credit to Germany, are concluded and the books closed after being open to public subscription only a few minutes."

"With our new world viewpoints we in America have many great things yet to do. These things are typical of the broadminded world viewpoint of American finance. It shows the vision necessary to the men who guide our business affairs today. Certainly there is no limitation in this and the great opportunities which await us."

Bankers and business men of the leading towns of Taylor county, Texas, employed a county agent last spring, and requested that he vigorously promote boys and girls club activities. As a result of his work over 200 club members were enrolled. Work is being concentrated this year on poultry culling and grain sorghum seed selection. This fall there will be exhibits and contests, for which the business men are contributing generous prizes.

No Chance For the Wets

The present congress is implacably emphatically dry and furthermore the next congress will be of the same general character. Some weeks ago the statement was made that no matter how high the blood pressure might rise during the prohibition debates before a committee of congress, in the end the congress would stand by the prohibition amendment and would instead of modifying the same be more likely to strengthen it.

That is just the situation which has developed. The hearings have hurt the wet cause and even the moderate amenders now appreciate that situation.

There are crudities of various kinds particularly in the Volstead law, but no one is disposed to take a chance by correction of these crudities by legislation lest the opening of the door result in the wholesale denaturing of the law itself.

The Man For the Job

The strength of President Coolidge with the people of the country continues unabated. It is evident in day coaches and Pullman smokers, in the editorial columns of metropolitan and rural newspapers, and in cartoons all over the country. Not in a number of years has a chief executive been the subject of so much adulation. Yet without, here in contact with him declare that they note no difference in his attitude. He continues doing the work of the day with only one thought in mind, the welfare of the nation. Indeed he has a rather curious attitude in this matter, namely that inasmuch as he is only doing what is right that he is not entitled to any special praise, but that on the other hand if he failed to meet his responsibilities that he would be properly deserving of sharp criticism. He has indeed dignified the old but often forgotten axiom, "A public office is a public trust."

There seems to be a law of compensation which makes us work in our old age for the days we waste in youth.

Test for Auto Drivers

A miniature roadway with tiny cars operated by levers has been devised by Dr. Morris S. Viteles, psychologist of the University of Pennsylvania, to test the alertness and quick-thinking powers of chauffeurs applying for licenses to drive automobiles.

Manipulating a lever, the applicant controls the movements of one of the little cars over a miniature road which presents all the problems of a real highway—curves, crossroads and ditches.

To drive the little car without mishap, says Popular Science Monthly, requires not only intelligence, but considerable mental alertness.

Settled Old Account

In 1884 Peter Fortener, a resident of Delphos, Ohio, had a charge account at John Roth's grocery. He left town without paying his bill. A few days ago, says the Toledo Blade, a letter postmarked Dayton, Ohio, and signed Peter Fortener, was opened by Roth at his home. A $5 note and three $1 bills dropped out. "Sorry to have owed you so long," the letter said. "I was looking over my accounts and found I bought $8 worth of groceries from you that I failed to pay for in 1884." Roth has retired from business.

Resort of Fat Men

No one pretends to understand just why so many fat men have chosen to make their home in Stoneham, one of the many suburbs of Boston, but the Fat Men's club of that city has a gross burden of 154 tons when all members are present and weighed, and the champion fat member, with others of the club, has been unable to get down to tie his shoes for five years, that task being performed by an accommodating lad at the hotel where the champion fat man, with his 600 pounds, lives. Recently, when he could find no one to tie his shoes after dressing for the occasion, he was unable to attend the fancy dress ball the club gave; until the president sent help and had the shoe laces tied.—Ohio State Journal.

Most "English" Town

The most English town in England is said to be Dudley, Dorsetshire county, where 986 persons out of every 1,000 inhabitants are authentic English, exclusive of Scotch, Welsh and Irish.

One out of every three persons born in England is living elsewhere than in the place of his birth, it is estimated. Only about 58 per cent. of Newcastle's population was born there. In Manchester the percentage is 61, in Leicester 63, Leeds 66, Birmingham 68, London 69, Liverpool 70.

Liverpool boasts 200,000 natives in other towns, Manchester 240,000, Birmingham 240,000 and London 1,500,000.

Old Boston Theater

Wreckers engaged in the demolition of the seventy-five-year-old Boston theater happened on a surprise when they found that the walls of the famous structure had been built around an ancient house. Apparently no one knows how it came there, or its past, or what sentiment may have caused the builders of the theater to allow it to stand. Histories have revealed nothing.

It is a two-and-a-half-story frame dwelling, in exceptionally good repair despite its 150-odd years. A single dormer window projects from its slate roof. Antique windows, strangely out of harmony with one another, pierce its one visible wall. So different are they that they suggest that long before the theater was built some of them may have been altered to meet the exigencies of some sort of business establishment.

The house apparently adjoined the part of the theater containing the long lobby, which extended from Washington street to the auditorium entrance and the gallery staircase.

Deep Oil Wells

In some of the larger oil well operations in Oklahoma and the southwestern section of the country, oil wells are sunk all the way from a few feet to a depth of 8,000 feet. The majority of wells range between 1,000 and 3,000 feet, however. Except where the geological investigations have held out some particular promise, drilling is abandoned usually at 2,000 to 2,500 feet if there are no traces found by that time and a depth of 4,000 or 5,000 feet is bored only where there have been some promising indications.

Whereas, on to-wit, the 5th day of October, 1924, Walter von Hoefen, and Rosa H. von Hoefen, his wife, did make and execute and deliver a certain deed of trust to M. M. Downer and W. L. Ballenger, as Trustees, conveying to them as such trustees the real property hereinafter described for the benefit and security of Harry O. Watson, and to secure the payment to said Harry O. Watson of a promissory note of even date with said deed of trust which said deed of trust was thereafter, the 12th day of November, 1924, duly recorded in the County Recorder's office of the County of Contra Costa, State of California, in Volume 468 of Deeds, page 331, Records of Contra Costa County, and

Whereas, there is now due, owing and unpaid upon the promissory note secured by said deed of trust a large sum of money and default has been made in the payment thereof and there has been a breach of obligation which said deed of trust was given to secure, and such default and breach has continued since prior to the 23d day of January, 1926, and

Whereas, on the 23d day of January, 1926, said Harry O. Watson as beneficiary under said deed of trust duly filed and recorded in the County Recorder's office of the County of Contra Costa, a notice of breach of said obligation and of election to sell or cause to be sold said real property so conveyed by said deed of trust which said notice was duly recorded in Volume 9 of Official Records, page 463, records of Contra Costa County and was in the form and in all respects complied with the law in such cases made and provided and more than three months have elapsed since said notice was so filed and recorded, and

Whereas, said Harry O. Watson has heretofore duly requested and made demand upon said trustees to forthwith proceed to sell the real property in said deed of trust described for the purposes therein set forth;

Now Therefore, pursuant to said demand and request and in accordance with the terms and under the authority and powers described in and given by said deed of trust, the undersigned H. M. Downer and W. L. Ballenger, as such Trustees aforesaid, do hereby give notice that on Monday, the 24th day of May, 1926, at 10:00 o'clock A. M. of said day in the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, in front of the entrance to the office of H. O. Watson at No. 311 Tenth Street, City of Richmond, California, they will sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, lawful money of the United States of America, all that certain piece, parcel or tract of land situate, lying and being in the City of Richmond, County of Contra Costa, State of California, and particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Lot number Six (6) in Block number seventeen (17) as the said lot and block are laid down and delineated upon that certain map entitled "Richmond Traffic Center, Contra Costa Co., California," filed in the office of the County Recorder of the County of Contra Costa, on the 18th day of April, 1914.

Together with the appurtenances. Terms of sale: Cash in lawful money of the United States of America; 10 per cent payable to the undersigned at the fall of the hammer; the balance payable to the undersigned within ten days thereafter in exchange for deed by said trustees and if not so paid, then the said 10 per cent so paid to be forfeited and the sale to be void.

Dated this 30th day of April, 1926.

E. M. DOWNER,
Trustees.
